

The EMCDDA: your reference point on drugs in Europe

The European Monitoring Centre for Drugs and Drug Addiction (EMCDDA) was established in 1993. Inaugurated in Lisbon in 1995, it is one of the European Union's (EU) decentralised agencies.

The EMCDDA provides the EU and its Member States with a factual overview of European drug problems and a solid evidence base to support the drugs debate. Today it offers policymakers the data they need for drawing up informed drug laws and strategies. It also helps professionals and practitioners working in the field pinpoint best practice and new areas of research.

The EMCDDA works on the principle that sound information is the key to an effective strategy on drugs. Although it does not propose policy, the agency has a clear impact on decision-making through the analyses, standards and tools it provides.

The Reitox network

Reitox is the European information network on drugs and drug addiction created at the same time as the EMCDDA. Members of the Reitox network are designated national institutions or agencies responsible for data collection and reporting on drugs and drug addiction. These institutions are called 'national focal points' or 'national drug observatories'.

The EMCDDA-IPA project

- Time frame: 2012–14
- Budget: EUR 900 000
- Beneficiaries: Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Croatia, Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, Iceland, Kosovo*, Montenegro, Serbia and Turkey.
- Objective: the overall project objective is to support the IPA beneficiaries in their preparation for participation in the work of the EMCDDA and the Reitox network.

In order to achieve this, the project has defined a set of measurable and specific objectives:

- To consolidate the cooperation between the EMCDDA and each beneficiary at institutional level
- To foster scientific cooperation in relation to data collection, analysis and interpretation
- To develop, expand and promote the added value of the cooperation

The project is implemented by the EMCDDA. The project is financed through the Instrument of Pre-accession Assistance (IPA) of Directorate-General Enlargement of the European Commission. It is a continuation of previous projects implemented over the last seven years. The overall project management is ensured by the EMCDDA's Reitox and international cooperation unit.
